Despite emphasis of this news media, of Olivet University (Olivetuniversity.edu, a Cal Entity) and IBT Media (also an on-line news source) on "digital" era, one can't help but notice that NOT ONE of these "leadership" bios comes with a hyperlink to anything more about the person, or anything identifying even some of the main publications/ references in his (re this screen-shot) background.

Leadership & Editorial Staff

PUBLISHER AND CEO

William C. Anderson

Will Anderson has served as the Publisher and Chief Executive Officer of The Christian Post since 2010. Mr. Anderson previously worked in the sales and editorial departments, where he started with the company, while also leading as campus ministry director on several college campuses in the U.S. As Publisher of The Christian Post, he led the publication to become the #1 Religion/Spirituality website in the world, according to ComScore, the leading Internet analytics firm. Mr. Anderson lives with his wife, Jenny, and daughter, Dove, in New York City.

EXECUTIVE EDITOR

Dr. Richard D. Land

Dr. Richard Land serves as the Executive Editor of The Christian Post, President of Southern Evangelical Seminary, and President Emeritus of the Southern Baptist Convention's Ethics & Religious Liberty Commission, where he has served since 1988. Dr. Land was featured in Time Magazine as one of "The Twenty-five Most Influential Evangelicals in America," and had served five terms with the U.S. Commission on International Religious Freedom after his appointment by former President George W. Bush. Dr. Land, however, says his proudest accomplishment is his more than 35-year marriage to his wife, Dr. Rebekah Land, and his personal investment with her in the lives of their three adult children: Jennifer, Richard, Jr.,

and Rachel.

SENIOR MANAGING EDITOR

John Grano

John Grano serves as Senior Managing Editor of The Christian Post. Mr. Grano worked at Inside Washington Publishers from 1980 to 2011 and was IWP's primary editorial director for over 20 years. During his time at IWP, he was responsible for starting more than 20 new publications, covering environmental policy, defense, international trade, health regulation, and energy. IWP's newsletters have international reputations and have won numerous national reporting awards. In addition to his journalism work, Mr. Grano has served in his church as a care group leader, worship leader, and youth pastor. He lives with his wife, Cyndy, in the Virginia Piedmont, and has three adult children.

Interesting, de-emphasizing the functional TITLES, focusing on the NAMES. From a "compared to the Bible" perspective, they do the same with the Lord Jesus Christ with "Lord" typically under-emphasized, and avoidance of stating all 3 in a row (LJC). That goes with the (Standard Trinitarian) territory, AND .. (cont'd next comment)

... works to conveniently blend in the REALLY well-known "Senior Advisory Editors" with those actually running (it seems) the publication, which seem to be only 6 individuals (3 shown here, and the next 3) of which only Land and probably Grano have any significant gravitas — depending (for Grano) on who or what is Inside Washington Publishers"
