

Building Community Deep in the Hearts of Texans

This is a Nonprofit formed in 2004, using a dba
The nonprofit's name is "The Social Responsibility Corporation"

Keep your eyes
on the gold.
JOIN TXNP

HOME SEARCH POST EDITORIALS RESOURCES RECIPES

("TXNP") as a 501©3 is filing Forms 990EZ,
which shows less detail than a Form 990.
Are these two foundations sponsoring the newsletter through direct donations? If so, not much – as the 501©3 is showing very low revenues.

"Professional Members" = Advertising
Space and probably higher dues

< More Press Releases

(Obviously updates automatically) Tuesday, March 28, 2017

Harvard Business Review, The Bridgespan Group Partner to Launch Online Insight Center on Scaling Social Impact

The Bridgespan Group

January, 2013

Share: f t g+

The article reads "today announced" but as posted here, there is no date – just a month and year

The Bridgespan Group and Harvard Business Review today announced the launch of the Insight Center on Scaling Social Impact, an online resource published on HBR.org that will feature the latest and best thinking on social enterprise. Supported by the Omidyar Network, this partnership will provide a platform for the field's global leaders to share stories and lessons on the relationship between for-profit ventures and social change. The Insight Center will feature blogs, full-length articles, and interactive webinars from prominent names in the industry.

Your TXNP Weekly E-Newsletter is made possible by the generosity of:

FROST in many Texas cities
THE SID RICHARDSON FOUNDATION in Fort Worth

TXNP Professional Members Are Dedicated to Texas and Texans.

Aurora Grants & Consulting | Dawson
Murray Teague Communications | ELITE
Research | FOR THE PHILANTHROPIST |
Graystone Consulting | J A Churchill
Associates | John F. Lewis PC | McConnell
& Jones LLC

NO KID HUNGRY

IMAGE FILENAME: Bridgespan-HBR Jan2013 Partnering Post (referencing Omidyar) as seen on TXNP'org (Screen Shot 2017-03-29 at 11.20AM).png